prayed for Blaine's nomination, because they be lieved his name the strongest the Republican party could offer to the country, were eager to push on and nominate him this afternoon. They argued that a fair chance had been given to all the candidates. Sherman had had a long lead, and yet could not be nominated. Then Harrison had been given a good chance, and he, too, was unable to reach the goal. It was not believed by this wing that even an entirely new man like McKinley would be any more likely to unite the Conven-

In this situation the underlying Blaine interest which had been kept down in obedience to Blaine's letter and out of a desire to give the other candidates a fair chance to win the prize came to the surface. A large majority of the Ohio delegation, which was really a Blaine rather than a Sherman delegation, sent word to the special friends of Mr. Blaine that they were ready to vote for him. Offers of this kind were coming in on all sides and the expectation of many was that the nomination would be made immediately upon reassembling, or at all events after one or two ballots.

There was another wing, however, who took more cautious and conservative view. They felt that some of Mr. Blaine's enthusiastic friends were in danger of placing him in a false position. Other candidates were still in the field, who had announced themselves as such only when Mr. Blaine had declared that he was not a candidate. To force him suddenly into the field against them would, it was thought, put him in entirely a wrong light before the party and the country. It was thought best, therefore, to wait for a time and see whether the other cardidates would not practically withdraw in Mr. Blaine's favor, thus making the nomination, if it came to him, a spontaneous offer on their part, instead of an ordinary victory won over rivals in an ordinary convention contest.

derstanding of all the interests concerned, it was proposed that the Convention should adjourn until Monday without a ballot. The motion was promptly made when the Convention reassembled at 4 o'clock by General King, of Maryland, and a call of the roll by States was ordered. The vote was a mixed one. The Blaine strength, as a rule, was cast for adjournment, but the other candidates divided. Illinois and Iowa voted for adjournment, Michigan and Indiana solidly against

New-York called out great applause by voting solidly against adjournment. The total vote was 496 to 322. The delegates returned to their hotels, thoroughly wearied. To all appearances a general truce was declared for a few hours. Politics was abandoned, and the delegates amused themselves, or rested, while a strange quiet settled down upon the scene. The expectation of the friends of Mr. Blaine is that he will be nominated on Monday, with either General Alger, Governor Foraker, or General Harrison as Vice-President. The Blaine men count on getting such a concurrence by that time that he will receive the nomination in a way satisfactory to The nomination is opposed, however, by a number of delegates who believe that as Mr. Blaine has withdrawn and there is great uncertainty as to whether he would accept, he should not be nominated. The present expectation is that William McKinley will be put forward as the candidate of this element, though there is talk of ex-Governor Porter, of Indiana.

EFFORTS TO PREVENT A STAMPEDE. PRIENDS OF THE VARIOUS CANDIDATES OPPOSED

The names of none of the candidates were brought before the meeting. It is now clear that New-York does not hold the key to the situation and that the Convention does not intend that that State shall dictate who is to be the nominee. It is now thought that the conclusion will not be reached before Mon-day. The conclusion reached by the meeting will

DISSATISFIED WITH THE TEMPERANCE PLANK. Chicago, June 23 (Special).-Thus far the only serious criticism of the platform comes from the temperance people. They are disappointed because no specific utterance is made upon this subjet. So strong is this feeling that a supplementary resolution has been drawn up by representatives of the anti-saloon movement here and is now being considered by the Sub-Committee on Resolutions. Albert Griffin. Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, General Nettleton and others hope to see it adopted, but the general feeling in the committee is against any further reference to the matter. Said Major McKinley this evening:

"Our committee spent eight hours in considering that temperance plank. We weighed the whole subject carefully from beginning to end and came to the conclusion that it was better to leave the whole question with the various States. It is a matter more within their province than ours. I do not think we shall urge the adoption of the supple-mentary resolution which has been offered." A LETTER FROM SENATOR SHERMAN. SAID TO HAVE RELEASED THE OHIO DELEGATION FROM PLEDGES TO RIM.

Chicago, Ill., June 23 .- The fifth day closes with Blaine against the field. There was a par row escape from a Blaine stampede in the Convention at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Depew admitted the failure of the movement, and declared himself for Blaine. Instead of getting the nomination this morning, Harrison was forced to the utmost of his strength and compelled to fall back, confessedly beaten. Harrison's friends are indignant at the manner in which he has been treated, and claim that a mere pretence was made of giving him hearty support, and that from the first it was not intended by Elkins and his colleagues to permit the Hoosier's nomination. They are in an ugly mood to-night, and while confessing their favorite's defeat, have no plans for the future. Probably they will swallow their disappointment with as good grace as possible and play for the second place on the ticket.

The Elkins programme of beating the regular candidates, one after another, thus preparing the way for Blaine as a finality, is being successfully carried out. Sherman fell by the wayside on Friday, and Harrison was beaten to-day. Senator John Sherman telegraphed the four Ohio delegates-at-large on Friday evening that they could exercise their best judgment concerning future operations. To-day he telegraphed more explicit relief of all pledges to him.

Three men are talked of as strong enough to beat the Elkins combination for Blaine. These are Gresham, Allison and McKinley. The last named has made a fine impression upon the Convention as chairman of the Platform Committee, and by his fidelity to Sherman. A conference of about forty friends of all the candidates was held in the parlors of the Grand Pacific to-day. A subcommittee, composed of two delegates friendly to each of the candidates, reported in favor of all candidates except Allison and McKinley withdrawing from the contest and concentrating their forces first on Allison, and if he cannot win, then on McKinley. The California delegates were represented at the conference, and an effort was made to induce that delegation to take up McKinley. This California refused to do at present, taking the position that their candidate (Blaine) had a clear majority of the delegates, and while this was the case, it would be folly to consider any one else. The committee refused to sanction the report of the sub-committee and the matter was dropped until Monday.

The friends of Judge Gresham are making one last rally, and are forcibly presenting his claims as the strongest man on whom the opposition to Blaine can unite. They claim that he is the second choice of a larger number of delegates than any other candidate, and that he is the most available candidate. Wisconsin and Minnesota, which to-day wavered from the Gresham lines, have promised to come back on Monday morning. With Harrison beaten it is claimed that nearly the whole of Indiana will swing over to Indiana's second choice, and if Allison and Sherman will join the movement and if Allison and Sherman will join the Biaine may be beaten.

Mr. Elkins claims a large majority of the convention for Biaine, and says that Blaine can be nominated the moment he gives the word. Other figures are not so favorable to Blaine as these, and ex-Senator Platt, a Blaine man, has a list of the reliable Blaine delegates, prepared by his lieutenants after a personal canvass, and it contains the name: of 423 persons, a bare majority of the delegates.

This afternoon's adjournment without a ballet was at first put down as an anti-Blaine victory, but the facts do not support this theory. There are good reasons for believing that Depew's abandonment of Harrison was arranged to be the signal for a Blaine stampede, but it is the policy of the Blaine forces to aid all efforts to secure delay. They say that they are in no hurry to nominate Blaine, and want all the other candidates to have as good a chance, and as much time as their friends may ask for. They take this position because it is their desire not only to nominate Blaine, but to nominate him in such a manner as will not have the appearance of riding over the other candidates.

A vigorous effort will be made between this and Monday morning to combine the field against Blaine, but nothing will be decided on till tomorrow night. The present outlook is that Allison, Gresham or Mckinley will take the lead. The current prediction to-night is that Blaine will be nominated on Monday, possibly after a conference with the representatives of the defeated candidates, at which a letter or telegrom from Mr. Blaine will be read. This afternoon's adjournment without a ballot

Blaine will be read.

THAT IS WHAT HE WAS THERE FOR. COLONEL INGERSOLL ON THE DISTURBANCE CAUSED

Chicago, June 23 (Special).-The recollection of last night's episode in the Convention Ifall served to attract more than ordinary attention to Colonel Ingersoli in his strolls about the streets and through the cor-ridors of the Grand Pacific Hotel. After the recess he returned to the hotel, where he was for some time the

"I had no idea," said Mr. Ingersell, "that what I should say of Gresham would create a furore."
"Certainly not," replied a bystander, "why should you? The Convention had adjourned, and the people generally called on you, and you responded. That is what you were there for."

"That is it," said the Colonel, "that is just it. That is what I was there for. You know, perhaps, the story of the man who was sensick. He was on board a great ocean steamer which was rolling and tumbling along, and he became very dizzy and very sick. At last he approached the railing to turn him sick. At last he approached the railing to turn him-self inside out into the sea. A stranger advanced toward him, and said: 'My friend, are you sick!' The man turned round on him with a look of awful con-tempt in his eye and replied: 'You — fool, do you think I'm doing this thing for fun!' Now, that was just my case exactly. They called on me, and I re-sponded. That is just what I was there for. The only trouble was my remarks did not happen to please everybody who heard them."

ARGUING FOR McKINLEY.

MAHLON CHANCE SAYS THAT NO "TARIFF RE-FORMER" WOULD BE A SATISFACTORY CANDI-DATE. Chicago, June 23 (Special).-Mahlon Chance, of

New-York, this aftersoon unexpectedly drew about him a group of listeners, while discussing the merits of Mr. McKinley and his special fitness for the office of President. Without depreciating others who have been named, Mr. Change pointed significantly to the doubt which lingered in the minds of many as to the position of Judge Gresham.

"The issue," he said, "is above all other things the tariff. Now, if you nominate Gresham, you nom-inate a man whose real position is not defined, who is urged in some quarters because he is a tartif reformer. But Mr. Cleveland claims also to be a tariff reformer. Now, there are Democrats like Edward Cooper, of New-York, and William H. Barneim, of Connecticut, who understand this subject in all its bearings, and they are just as good protectionists as we have in the Republican party. They know what tariff reform as conducted by their own party means. If you pit Mr. Gresham against Mr. Cleveland, the declaration can be sustained that they are both tariff reformers. Hence, Democrats will say Both candidates are tariff reformers and we might as well romain in our party. But, if you put up a man like McKinley, he stands for something, a great principle which is dear to every Republican and to many Democrats as well. There will then be an opportunity for them to choose for or against their own interests and in that way you will win contests for your candidate and your party.

BLAINE ENTHUSIASM IN PHILADELPHIA. Philadelphia, June 23 (Special).-The crowds in front of the newspaper bulletin-boards in this city continued all day, not even the heavy rain driving them away. It was a good-natured gathering that stood at the corner of Seventh and Chestnut sta., and as the vote of their favorite James G. Elaine, increased in size, shout after shout of joy went up There were probably 4,000 men in front of "The Press' office, and nine out of every ten of them were urdoubtedly for Blaine. The half dozen business men who telegraphed from this city yesterday that Philadelphia was opposed to Blaine's nomination, were soundly ridiculed.

Mr. Lewis--Vesterday the Kentucky delegation was sided. I see that all the new papers of this city report me this morning as having voted for General arrison on the last ballot. I voted for Mr. Gresham i that ballot, as I did on the other two ballots taken sterday. I desire to have the official report referred, to see whether or not my vote is properly re-

A STATEMENT BY MR. Mckinley.

The Convention then proceeded to ballot. When Connecticut was reached, one vote was cast for Mr. McKinley, of Ohio. As soon as this announce-ment was made, Mr. McKinley was seen to rise in his seat. Amid the most impressive silence he proceeded to make a statement. He was greeted with a storm of applause. He said:

I am here as one of the chosen representatives of my State. I am here by a resolution of the Republican Convention passed without one dissenting voice, commanding me to cast my vote for John Sherman and use every worthy endeavor for his nomination. I accepted the trust because my heart and judgment were in accord with the letter and spirit and purpose of that resolution. It has pleased certain delegates to cast their votes for me. I am not insensible to the honor they would do me, but in the presence of the duty resting upon me, I cannot remain silent with honor. I cannot consistently with the credit of the State whose credentials I bear and which has trusted I cannot with honorable fidelity to John Sherman who has trusted me in his cause and with his confidence; I cannot consistently with my own views of my personal integrity, consent or seem to permt my name to be used as a candidate before

I would not respect myself if I could find it in my heart to do, to say, or permit to be done, that which could even give reason for any one to suspect that I wavered in my loyalty to Ohio or my devotion to the chief of her choice and the chief of mine.

I do request, I demand, that no delegate who would not cast reflection upon me shall cast a ballot for me. Mr. McKinley spoke carnestly and with emphasis. He was evidently sincere and the convention, at the conclusion of his speech, generously applauded. The ballot was then proceeded with, without further incident until Illinois was reached, when break of 8 votes from Gresham to Harrison created a sensation and was received with a mingled demonstration of hisses and applause. When New-York was reached the galleries hissed. After the vote of the State giving Harrison 59 votes, one of the delegates demanded a poll of the delegation. The poll showed no change in the vote. As the ballot proceeded there was shown in addition to the expected gain for Harrison, a decided growth in the Alger vote, which came chiefly from the South. The Pennsylvania vote still stuck by Sherman, he getting 58 of the 60 votes from that State. This was a part of the Quay programme to beat Harrison. The Wis-consin vote swung to Harrison. When the State of Virginia was called the call of the rell of delegates was demanded, which resulted as follows: Sherman-William Mahone, John G. Watts, S. Brown Allen, A. W. Harris, O. G. Foster, F. R. Lee, Charles Gee, J. M. Langsoon, M. B. Wood and W. A. French-10.

The clerk then read the result of the ballot, which was as follows: Ayes 496, nays 322. The Chair then announced that the Convention stood Just before the vote was announced Mr. Warner, of Alabama, addressed the Chair as follows:

"I desire to ask if the Chair has any information as to railroad tickets which expire to-day, whether they will be good any longer. I desire the Chair to state whether other railroad tickets which expire to-day will be extended."

The Chair—The National Committee will attend to that. At this point Colonel Fitzsimmons, the sergeantat-arms, mounted the platform, and addressed the convention as follows:

"The galleries will be in order for an announcement. The Chair desires me to announce that the last coupon on the fifth day's ticket will serve for entrance and will secure seats on Monday morning, if an adjournment is obtained. Delegates tickets will be honored as usual. All proper passes remain good until the end of the sessions."

Dr. Haymond, of California, had been for some time splitting his throat in the effort to attract the attention of the chairman. He was unsuccessful, and Mr. Fizsimpal continued: "The National Committee will attend to the exten-sion of the railway passes."

This remark of Colonel Fitzsimmons, was greet-ed with uproarious laughter, but he managed to lickets, tickets." Secretary Clisbee then addressed the Convention

"Let me say to the Convention that all tickets is-sued by the railroad companies will be honored until the day of the adjournment of the Convention and one day after, by order of the Central Traffic Association." This announcement was greeted with tremendous cheers. Mr. Haymond finally secured the attention of the chairman and spoke as follows: "Upon this side of the house we all voted for an adjournment, supposing we did it at the request of The Charles as follows:

New-York."

The Chair (vociferously)—The gentleman is out of order. Mr. Clerk, announce the vote. The vote was then announced as above given. After the adjournment there were some calls for Foraker, and some for Ingersoll, but about this time the electric lights suddenly became dim, whereupon the audience filed out.
